The hematological changes following the induction of acute inflammation in the rat by intraperitoneal administration of endotoxin alone or in combination with adjuvant at doses of 0.8, 1.0 and 1.2 mg/kg body weight were studied. After the injection of endotoxin alone, there were significant elevations in the absolute counts of neutrophils and platelets. At the same time, the total counts of the white blood cells, red blood cells and hemoglobin were decreased, the mean corpuscular volume of red blood cells increased and the ratio of neutrophils to lymphocytes decreased. A typical septic state was observed for a period of 24-36 h. After the injection of endotoxin in combination with adjuvant, there were significant changes in the hematological parameters in the doses of 0.8, 1.0 and 1.2 mg/kg body weight of endotoxin. The trends of the changes were similar to those seen after the injection of endotoxin alone. With 1.0 mg/kg body weight of endotoxin and the combined dose of adjuvant, a death rate of 40% was noted. On the basis of the present results, it is concluded that a combination of endotoxin and adjuvant is more toxic than endotoxin alone, possibly because of the additive effects of endotoxin and adjuvant at sites of inflammation.Q: I need to show these conditions $a\le b$ and $a \le a1d647c40b
