Pages Friday, January 1, 2012 A New Year, a New You, a New Blog I met a lady at a party last week who told me that she was thinking about starting a blog. I thought how great that would be, if you are like me, and you are always thinking about starting new projects. When I explained to her that I had a blog that she should visit, she told me that she had read it, and that it was pretty good. I was excited, but she was also on her way out of the party. I tried to stay and talk to her, but she had a friend waiting for her. So I left the party and left her behind, but now I am thinking about starting a blog all by myself. I would like to know what you think of this idea of starting a blog. It's been around for awhile, but the thing is, I'm not sure if I have anything important to say. Welcome to the blogosphere! I started blogging in April 2007, but only started posting regularly in September 2007. This is my blog, so I guess I should be the one to write for it. Why not? So, feel free to look around and comment. Enjoy your stay! Hey there! a69d392a70
