Super Famicom SGN. Wrote: "The game is quite exciting if played with the Japanese version only, but as an English version, much of the excitement is lost because of the frequent use of non-Japanese words, and it is a bit difficult for foreigners to understand..." SUPER PLAY Wrote: "One of the best RPG's made for the Super Famicom." Super NES Sistersgaiden Wrote: "One of the most entertaining games for SNES." RPG Site Wrote: "In the game, you are first asked to create your own character. You can create a character with whatever race and class you like. You can also choose your preferred weapons, armor, and spells. After that, you can explore dungeons, towns, and caves, and fight mobs. Even though you have to manually fight battles, it gets so much easier after you get used to it." Hero's Quest Wrote: "For the whole game, you get hundreds of items and powerful spells to choose from, and you'll have a lot of fun from the start. The controls are awkward at first, but after you get used to it, you'll find yourself customizing your character from the start in a lot of exciting ways. There are more than 300 weapons and armor in the game, and the realistic graphics and sound are both great." Super NES PALUS Wrote: "Finally, this game delivers what the name implies: a real, full-fledged role-playing game. The graphics are fantastic, the music is lovely and the action never flags. The whole cast is finely detailed, and all of them speak so clearly that it's difficult not to fall in love with each and every one of them. They all have their own strengths and weaknesses, and you'll have to choose among them in your party according to the kind of play you enjoy." Super NES Wessex Wrote: "The first thing you should know is that this is an entirely text-based RPG, which has no graphics at all. There are a bunch of overworld tiles to explore, and each tile opens up into a random dungeon where you'll explore, fight enemies, and collect loot. The dungeon tiles are customizable, so you can make each one different. However, you'll be backtracking a lot to previously explored areas, and will see the same rooms again and again. I have images that i use as featured pictures in my django website for a blog. I uploaded them from my mac to my server. When I add them to the admin, they add fine but when I try to delete them, it says that the image does not exist. I have: Restricted permissions The Image that the picture belongs to is not deleted. What is going on? If I can delete the featured image, it seems rather strange to be able to. Can anybody help me out? (I am using Django 1.6) A: Maybe you have to try with this: Assign the image to an Entry in the Django Admin, (which is anyway the most 'normal' way of accessing a model) then filter the Model objects with a through model of an Item or whatever image your model is using. A: A few suggestions: Restricted permission are default for all Admin models. Go with the default. Depending on your Django version, you might not be able to delete model objects from the admin at all. If your admin is locked down with admin = AdminSite(...), then you might have to do something like 'creating an entry and delete it' (the following is for 1.6.x) # Create the entry entry = Entry.objects.create(images=YourImage.object.all()) # Delete the entry using the entry ID delete_entry(entry.pk) I'm not sure if this works if you're trying to delete from the admin, but I suspect it will. A: I've been having a similar problem with the images I added to my models, there's an attribute called trans field where you can define the default behavior for delete:

- Open the Rehud confirmation tool.exe.
- Press Start.
- Provide your RedBrick username and password. You will be required to enter your user name. You will also be presented with the title bar. Leave it alone.
- Click the button on top right of the title bar. If you have the latest updates, the "Next" button should be greyed out. If not, right click the "Next" button and select "Allow Unsecured".
- Click "OK" to confirm. Once this completes, find the Rehud ID in the game database.
- Click "OK" to the latest update box. This will leave the game database and should no longer be updating.
- Find your "id.db" file in your RB.rtp folder. Open it and double click on "rehud_id.ini".
- Scroll to the end of the file and find the line "Rehud ID =
